What information about the event do we want to find in the internet?

- When was it?
- Where was it?
- Who took part?
- What happened exactly?
- Why did it happen?
- What were/are the consequences for the people?

Where to find answers?

Group work 1

Work out in mixed international groups criteria on trustworthy online sources.

Write down 4 questions about an online source to determine, if it is trustworthy.

Media literacy

How to determine whether an online source is trustworthy?

See if you can verify the online information through a non-web-based source, such as a book, a map or another reference.

Imagine you have got the following homework:

Write an essay on The fall of the Berlin wall!

What sources would you use to carry out this task?

Group work 2

Form national groups!

Find two online sources
(one website and one Chat GPT source) that you would use for an essay on “The fall of the Berlin wall” and analyze them with the help of the questions above.

Consolidation

Present your work in a gallery walk:

- Count from 1 to 4 in your group
- Number 1 stays at the table
- The others spread out clockwise over the other tables
- Present your results and move clockwise in 4 rounds
